INDIA RIOTS NEAR CLIMAX

NEW RAIDS PLANNED AFTER POLICE HALT SALT PAN ATTACKS

Woman Leader And Others Arrested; Raid Congress

BOMBAY, May 21.—With the Nationalist assault upon British sovereignty in India rapidly reaching its climax, the country seethed with unrest today as plans went forward for new raids upon the government salt depot at Dharasana, where Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, the self-styled "modern Joan of Arc" and scores of others were arrested in a bloody clash between independents and police earlier in the day.

Latest reports from Dharasana, now the focal point of the Nationalist "passive rebellion," stated that V. J. Patel, secretary of the Indian Nationalist congress, had arrived there to carry forward the banner of independence which fell from Mrs. Naidu's hands when she was taken into custody.

The "passive resistance" of the Nationalists changed suddenly to day into guerrilla warfare. More than 1,500 raiders, led by the courageous woman, attacked the salt depot, first trying to uproot the electrified barbed wire entanglements which had been erected and then attempting to break through the lines of police and troops to reach the salt pans.

Time after time, groups of raiders were beaten back by the police, who in order to avoid bloodshed, used no weapons save their bamboo batons. Many of the raiders were severely cut and bruised, however, at least twenty of them requiring hospital treatment.

The battle, one of the most prolonged and serious since Mahatma Gandhi launched his "passive resistance" campaign weeks ago, lasted almost two hours. When the raiders finally were repelled, scores had been taken into custody, including Mrs. Naidu and Mani Lal.

COUNCILMAN RAIDS TOLEDO VIOLATORS

TOLEDO, O., May 21.—Taking Mayor William T. Jackson at his word, Alford J. Lee, Toledo's energetic crusading councilman, today continued his relentless war against lawbreakers following a day of successful encounters in which he raided three places and seized six slot machines.

The councilman began his vigorous campaign yesterday upon authority of Mayor Jackson, who told Lee to "go out and make your own arrests" rather than stir up an investigation.

Within three hours Lee had seized three slot machines and ordered patrolmen to haul them to the safety building to be destroyed. Later in the day the councilman seized three more machines and sent them to a like destiny.

BANDITS KILL CHEF DURING ROBBERY

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill., May 21.—Sheriff's deputies today were searching for two bandits who shot and killed Lawrence MacMichael, a chef, during a raid on the Greenwood Inn last night.

Entering the main dining room, the bandits ordered Jacenti Laduda, proprietor, to put up his hands. Instead he drew a gun and ordered them out. As they were backing toward the door MacMichael emerged from the kitchen and one of the men felled him with a shot-gun load. The bandits escaped.

Gold Star Mothers Weep Where Crosses Mark Graves Of Hero-Sons At Verdun

VERDUN, May 21.—The rays of the morning sun pierced the leaden skies here today, routing war time weather and reflecting the saddened glory of a mother's heart as 107 American gold star mothers knelt in prayer before the graves of their sons.

Fourteen thousand marble crosses glistened within the shadow of Mont Faucon.

The gates of the cemeteries were closed to the public as the last of the gold star mothers entered and they were left alone with their memories and their prayer before the shrines of their loved ones.

Each of the mothers, as they filed through the gates of the Meuse-Argonne Cemetery, in the Romagne section, received wreathed poppies and ferns and each was given a plan of the cemetery marking the location of her son's grave.

Similar scenes were enacted in five other cemeteries.

Before visiting the graves, the gold star mothers were received by Major Jean Schleiter at the city hall.

There were many touching incidents when the bereaved mothers knelt before the crosses marking the graves where their sons lay.

Some of them dropped limply, seemingly on the verge of collapse, throwing their arms around the marble crosses for support.

Others knelt, their prayers broken with sobs, with their heads against the cold stone of the crosses.

At Romagne, a sudden storm obliterated the sun and drove the gold star mothers to shelter when fitful gusts of rain were blown across the cemetery. They were escorted to the home of the cemetery hostess, where they took lunch.

Witnesses of the sad pilgrimage could not help but notice the fortitude and bravery of the bereaved mothers, and even those most visibly affected regained their composure after a few minutes, placing their wreaths of flowers on the graves and finding new words of sympathy for their companions in mourning.

MUCH LEGISLATION WILL BE DISCARDED BY HOUSE PROGRAM

Adjournment June 15 Is Goal; Wet, Dry Bills
Ignored

WASHINGTON, May 21.—House leaders today clamped the lid on new controversial legislation, with the result that radical wet and dry bills as well as many other measures of importance apparently are doomed for the present session.

With adjournment now predicted before June 15, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican house leader, and Representative Snell (R) of New York, chairman of the rules committee, declared that few new proposals will be considered at this stage of the session.

With adjournment now predicted before June 15, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican house leader, and Representative Snell (R) of New York, chairman of the rules committee, declared that few new proposals will be considered at this stage of the session.

The house program calls for the passage of the Snell resolution creating a committee to investigate Communism, the German debt settlement bill in accordance with the Young plan, Muscle Shoals, and a bill setting up a full-time federal water power commission, appropriation and minor bills. "It is not likely that any other measures highly controversial will be considered at this stage of the session," said Tilson. "If the house judiciary committee reports that some additional federal judges are needed to relieve congestion in federal courts, that will be given attention, but I doubt if other bills making radical changes in the court system can be passed."

The Wickensham law enforcement commission's plan to set up U. S. commissioners' courts and establish "juryless trials" are among the prohibition bills which Tilson does not expect to be considered.

Another is the administration bill creating a unified border patrol under the coast guard, substituting enlisted men in the coast guard for the present border patrol.

Both proposals still are in committee. The measures calling for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment also fall under the ban of house leaders.

The Norris resolution to abolish "lame duck" sessions of congress, passed by the senate, is expected to be submerged in the wind-up.

"Many controversial measures can well go over until the session next winter," said Tilson. "I believe they can be better considered after the elections."

"I firmly believe there already are too many laws, and the less legislation the better as a general rule. We have pretty well adhered to this principle this session."

The majority leader said he thought that the house "had operated well" with the administration.

While some of President Hoover's prohibition reform measures apparently will not be passed, Tilson said he doubted whether the president expected all of this legislation to be considered at this session.

House leaders say they will be ready to adjourn any time the senate gives the word. If the senate passes a long debate on the London treaty, house leaders are expected to propose that the senate be called into special session.

NEW YORK, May 21.—"Texas" Jim Baker, who lays claim to having killed eleven persons, was today in the toils awaiting a possible 20-year sentence.

Baker is charged with having forced Henry Gaw, a watchman at the Guggenheim Laboratory, to eat poison.

Judge Charles C. Nott allowed the "snake man" to plead guilty to second-degree murder.

GRAF PUSHES STEADILY ON

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, May 21.—The Graf Zeppelin, pushing steadily southwestward toward Brazil, was crashing through a low pressure area in the vicinity of the Canary Islands, off the west African coast early today.

Radio messages from the Graf indicated that there was a low-hanging mist over the islands north of Las Palmas and a light west wind.

"At 5 a. m. G. M. T. (1 a. m. E. D. T.) passed eastern shore of Tenerife (Canary Islands). All well," Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf, radioed.

The message indicated that the big airship had covered nearly a thousand miles of her 3,500 mile hop to Pernambuco, Brazil, from Seville, Spain, which she left yesterday at 4:32 a. m.

CONFESSES MURDER FOR SECOND TIME

CHICAGO, May 21.—After first confessing to the ribbon murder of Mrs. Mildred Helsing, young housewife, and then repudiating his statement, William Putscher, 19, today made a new confession in which he admitted strangling Mrs. Helsing to death in her apartment.

Putscher in his latest statement admitted taking the young bride's diamond rings after he strangled her with a piece of silk ribbon. The jewelry, he said, was given to two girls. Detectives located the girls, who admitted receiving jewelry gifts from young Putscher, but the slain woman's husband failed to identify the rings as those his wife had worn.

HUSBAND SOUGHT AS WIFE ASKS ALIMONY

CLEVELAND, May 21.—While attorneys for Mrs. Gwendolyn Holcomb Kundtz, formerly of Columbus, continued their preparations for her suit for alimony against her husband, Joseph E. Kundtz, son of a retired Cleveland millionaire, deputy sheriffs pressed their search for the husband to subpoena him.

Kundtz is wanted to make a deposition. He has been missing since last Saturday. The alimony suit was filed by Mrs. Kundtz against her husband of four months in connection with his suit for divorce from her.

HONEYMOON PALACE OF PRINCE AND PRINCESS RAZED BY FLAMES

OSLO, May 21.—Skougum, the "honeymoon palace" of Crown Prince Olaf and Princess Martha of Norway, was a mass of smoldering ruins today, but a tiny wicker cradle, decorated and be-ribboned by the princess' own hands, was salvaged unscathed from the wreckage.

At the risk of his life, Prince Olaf dashed into the burning building over the protests of his servants and firemen, who sought in vain to stop him, and emerged a few moments later with the cradle in his arms. Only a few days ago Princess Martha finished working on it in preparation for her expected baby.

The prince and princess were in the mansion when the fire broke out. Finding the entire roof ablaze, the prince ordered alarms blown, and directed the salvage efforts of his retainers. Most of the valuable wedding presents given to the royal couple on the occasion of their marriage a little over a year ago were saved, but many valuable articles of furniture, paintings and tapestries were destroyed.

Firefighters rushed to Skougum from all nearby towns, but lack of sufficient water made their task difficult. King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway motored to Skougum from Oslo, and tearfully watched the destruction of the "honeymoon palace."

The flames raged for more than two hours. Damage was estimated at $375,000.

FOUR TRUSTIES ARE SOUGHT FOLLOWING MANSFIELD ESCAPE

Penitentiary Check Shows Six Are Missing There

MANSFIELD, O., May 21.—Four trustees, who escaped from the Ohio State Reformatory here were being sought today by authorities.

Paul Phillips, 22, Ashland County, and Roy Consinger, 19, Warren County, both trustees, and John Morris and Gerald Atkins, fled from the state institution at Apple Creek farm yesterday afternoon.

The men, who were not among those transferred to the reformatory from Ohio Penitentiary, following the fire disaster on Easter Monday, had been trustees for some time.

Atkins was serving one to fifteen years for burglary and grand larceny; Consinger, one to three years for forgery; Morris, one to twenty years for auto stealing; and Phillips, one to seven years for larceny.

An unofficial check of convicts at Ohio Penitentiary which was completed Tuesday showed that six men were missing or unaccounted for, leaving 2,759 prisoners inside the prison walls. It is believed that the six men escaped during the confusion of the night of the fire. Whether they made their "getaway," are in hiding, or were missed in the count, will not be known until an official check is made after all the prisoners have been placed in cells.

During the next three months, 159 prisoners, now at Mansfield, will be paroled. At present, the population of the Mansfield institution is 3,000.

WALLED CITY FALLS TO GENERAL CHIANG

LONDON, May 21.—The ancient walled city of Kwal-Teh fell before the instruments of modern warfare and was in the hands of General Chiang Kai-Shek today according to dispatches received from China by London evening news papers.

A furious offensive on the city, personally directed by the Nationalist leader, resulted in 4,500 casualties.

Tanks and airplanes were used in the van of the attack against northern rebel troops who held the city.

The Nationalists claimed the capture of 6,000 prisoners, the death of 1,500 in the fighting were placed at 1,500 and the northern, at 3,000.

ADVERTISING PAYS

JOHN Wanamaker Stores, New York, bought advertising space in New York papers May 1 to tell readers that newspaper advertising pays.

In an advertisement entitled, "Open Letter to the Public," the company provided interesting facts that newspaper advertising actually sells goods.

Calling attention to the large sales volume enjoyed by the store, the advertisement said: "From one advertisement we have sold $60,000 worth of towels. From another $40,000 of sheets. From another $100,000 of rugs. Furniture days from $50,000 to $75,000 are not unusual. Nor $30,000 to $65,000 days of mens clothing."

Former Commander Of Legion Holds Favor Of Ottawa

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Hoover has selected Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Iowa, to be American minister to Canada. His name already has been approved by the Ottawa government and is now seeking acceptance in London. The nomination probably will go to the senate early this week.

MacNider was assistant secretary of war under President Coolidge. Before that, he was national commander of the American Legion. During the war, he served as adjutant of the second division and rang up a splendid military record, having been awarded the distinguished service cross with a cluster, the cross of guerre and five French citations, and the Croce al Merito di Guerra from Italy.

The assignment of MacNider to Canada has a special significance because his father, the late Charles Henry MacNider, was born in the Dominion. The post at Ottawa is one of the few public offices that could persuade him to again leave private life. He resigned as assistant secretary of war to take over the active guidance of his father's bank in Mason City.

MacNider is 41 years old and married. He was born in Mason City and educated at Harvard. He is a thirty-second degree Mason. At the 1924 Republican convention he was a delegate-at-large.

No opposition is expected to his appointment. During his service here under the Coolidge administration, MacNider made many friends in congress.

ACCUSED WOMAN IS HOPING TO TESTIFY

ERIE, Pa., May 21.—Mrs. Edna Mumbulo, pretty youthful step-mother of Hilda Mumbulo, 11, whom Mrs. Mumbulo is accused of having burned to death, was declared by her attorneys shortly before court opened today to be anxious to go into the witness stand in her own defense.

Mrs. Mumbulo is on trial for her life in connection with Hilda's death, the state contending she poured blazing gasoline over the little girl's bed while the girl lay asleep.

Searching cross-examination of state witnesses at an evening session of court last night drew admission by the witnesses that Mrs. Mumbulo, although not the child's mother, showed indications of mother-love while the girl was dying from body burns.

SENATE APPROVES OF ROBERTS

OWEN J. ROBERTS

WASHINGTON, May 21.—With the accession of Owen J. Roberts, Philadelphia lawyer and special government counsel in the "oil scandal" cases, the supreme court is expected to maintain and perhaps improve its record for speed in handling court business.

Roberts, who was confirmed by the senate late yesterday, is known as a hard working lawyer as well as a man of ability.

Since Chief Justice Hughes came to the bench, the court has been handicapped by the vacancy caused by the death of the late Justice Sanford. In spite of this, the court will be virtually current with its work by June 2, when it adjourns for the summer.

OHIO PEN DISASTER COST WAS $254,050 STATE BOARD SHOWS

Salaries Of Troops Principal Item In Expense Bill

COLUMBUS, O., May 21.—While conditions outwardly reached a period of normalcy at the Ohio State Penitentiary here, members of the state control board today announced that though only $35,000 damage resulted when the great fire hit the prison April 21, the conflagration which cost the lives of 329 convicts also has cost the state of Ohio $254,050.

The largest single item on the report was $138,200 for the payment of Ohio National Guard troops which have kept a continual vigil at the prison since the holocaust. At one time more than 1,000 soldiers were stationed there, but less than 100 men are on actual duty today.

A $100,000 appropriation was necessary for rehabilitation of the penitentiary. The G and H cell block was damaged by the fire and the "fire-trap" wooden roof was entirely razed. Damage also resulted in the "white city" cellblock when rioting occurred.

Burial of the 329 convicts who perished in the fire, and of two others who were shot to death by guardsmen when a machine gun discharged accidentally, cost the state $15,850.

Additional appropriations may be made.

GRUNDY DEFEATED BUT RUNNING MATE LEADING OPPONENT

Wet Ticket Third; Vane Control Is Still Strong

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Pennsylvania's super-hectic primary showed the following results today:

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis defeated Senator Joseph R. Grundy for the Republican senatorial nomination by a margin estimated between 150,000 and 175,000 votes.

Gifford Pinchot, the veteran progressive, apparently has won the Republican gubernatorial nomination from Francis Shunk Brown, the Vare organization candidate, by a narrow margin. The contest is close and it may take the official count to determine the winner.

The closeness of the governorship contest was indicated this morning when both Brown and Pinchot headquarters claimed victory by the same figure—50,000 votes.

Pinchot's managers claimed that the missing districts were all from Pinchot territory where his ratio was four and five to one over Brown. This was disputed by Brown's managers.

The "wringing wet" ticket of Thomas W. Phillips for governor and Professor Francis H. Bohlen for senator polled a heavy vote throughout the state, but ran third.

Senator Grundy, with characteristic grimness, retired early this morning refusing to concede the victory of his cabinet opponent, but the verdict was written in such figures that a concession was hardly necessary.

Grundy ran far behind Davis in the two great organizations strongholds of the state, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and although he made up some ground in the other sixty-five counties it was impossible to overcome the tidal wave of votes rolled up by the city machine.

The Pinchot-Brown race was a see-saw affair throughout the night but this morning the tall forester was leading Brown by some 7,000 in Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) and the territory yet to be heard from in the middle counties, was considered favorably to his cause.

The strength of Pinchot and the weakness of Grundy were the outstanding features of the results to the politicians.

Slaughtered in Philadelphia, the stronghold of the Vare machine, against which he campaigned so assiduously, Pinchot ran a strong and surprising race elsewhere in the state. This morning his managers were claiming that on the final returns he will be shown to have carried every one of Pennsylvania's sixty-seven counties. He received only 53,000 votes in Philadelphia in a total vote of approximately 400,000.

Grundy failed only slightly better than Pinchot, his informal ticket-mate, in Philadelphia, and failed to gain the large support in Allegheny (Pittsburgh) that enabled Pinchot to make a race of it. With unofficial and incomplete returns from most of the counties, it is expected that Grundy will have carried a score of counties in the final showdown, but some of them were counties that do not have as many votes as some of Philadelphia's populous divisions.

The wet showing, on the whole, was pronounced today by the wet managers to be fairly satisfactory.

"We lost, but we made a right of it, and we will go on," said Professor Bohlen. He predicted that if Grundy finally emerges a winner over Brown an independent wet ticket will be put in the field against him in November. Pinchot is the dryest of all the candidates on the ticket.

The county results ran true to predictions as to the crossing and re-crossing of inter-party lines. In

URBANA FIRE CHIEF INJURED AT BLAZE

URBANA, O., May 21.—One fireman was hurt and loss of between $10,000 and $15,000 resulted today when fire of unknown origin swept one of the three buildings of the Maple Lumber Co. here.

Fire Chief George Donovan suffered bruises about the legs when a pile of lumber fell on him. He was removed from the scene in an ambulance, and, after receiving medical treatment, was taken to his home.

The lumber company manufactures baseball bats, pick and hammer handles and other wooden utilities.

AUTO VICTIM DIES

CLEVELAND, O., May 21.—Cleveland's 1930 traffic toll mounted to ninety-one today with the death of Michael Rodutz, 42, a victim of a hit-skip motorist.

Rodutz died in St. Alexis Hospital from injuries which he received when he was struck by an automobile March 30. Police are searching for the driver of the car.

DALLAS, Texas, May 21.—Although formal protest against the decision has been promised, the case of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia, was considered at an end today as far as his church is concerned, following his complete exoneration of charges of alleged stock market speculation.

Rescinding a previous vote to cite the Virginia prelate for trial, the powerful committee on episcopacy yesterday filed its report with the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which the charges against Bishop Cannon were dismissed and his character "upheld."

The committee's action is not reviewable by the conference, and the case was expected to be closed probably today or tomorrow with the filing of the formal pronouncement of the committee and a statement by G. T. Fitzhugh, Mass., Tenn. attorney.

SENATOR SMITH W. BROOKHART COMING WITH CHAUTAUQUA

An interesting program is announced for the coming Redpath Chautauqua which will open its annual visit in Xenia, Ohio June 23.

The appearance of U. S. Senator Smith, W. Brookhart of Iowa, who on the second night of Chautauqua will discuss late economic trends with particular emphasis on farm relief and the co-operative movement is a feature of the program. Senator Brookhart is one of the outstanding men of the newer group of senators from the West, comprising what is commonly referred to as the Farm Bloc, and which is now recognized as a powerful factor in shaping legislation.

Judge Alden of Boston, who will be favorably remembered by former Chautauqua patrons, is back again talking on social and religious questions.

On the third afternoon "Crime and Criminals" will be the subject of the discussion by Judge Frank C. Travers, a lifelong student of penal laws and judicial procedure.

The Russian Cossack Chorus, Serge Sokoloff directing, will climax the musical numbers of the week with a grand concert on the fourth night. This company of singers, organized in 1921, has established an enviable reputation in concert here and abroad and is said to be one of the finest vocal ensembles ever to appear on Chautauqua.

Artists Day will present Hugo Brandt, pianist; Paul Clark, violinist and LaYonne Field in crayon work with musical accompaniment.

The closing night of Chautauqua will be "Joy Night", with the ever popular Vierra's Hawaiians in a novelty musical production, "An Evening in Hawaii" featuring unusual scenic and lighting effects.

Instead of two plays as has been the custom, three plays will be presented this year, two comedies and a mystery play. On the opening night there will be "The Big Pond," a recent metropolitan comedy hit with international complications which abounds in surprising situations ending in an unexpected manner.

"The Mollusc," a sparkling witty comedy in three acts by Herbert Henry Davies, comes on the third night. Phyllis Mackaye will be seen in the title role. The play sets forth in comical situations the indolence of the idle rich; an indolence which becomes an insidious disease.

The last play, to be given on the fifth night, will be the recent New York and London success, "The Perfect Alibi." This detective comedy by A. A. Milne is one of the finest plays that has been done in the so-called mystery field; novel in that the audience is in on the secret right from the start and yet kept in breathless suspense by numerous unlooked-for events which develop as the law proceeds with its search for the guilty.

"Junior Two" will again be held each day throughout Chautauqua for the young folks; their activities culminating in a big pageant on the last afternoon of the week.

QUALITY · IS · THE · BEST · POLICY

GRAHAM, long ago, deliberately adopted a policy of building its business on a foundation of value-giving.

GRAHAM, at that time, did not dream that its present triumph in value-giving would be so speedily accomplished.

GRAHAM hardly expected, for instance, to offer the public a motor car like the Standard Six Town Sedan at a factory list price of $845.

But GRAHAM has been able, through masterful and exacting control of mass production, to provide this car with such unparalleled features as—115-inch wheelbase—a six-cylinder motor with 207 cubic inches piston displacement—7-bearing crankshaft with 81.4 square inches of main-bearing area—Graham-built bodies with four wide doors and adjustable seats—hydraulic internal expanding four-wheel brakes, extra-large 12-inch drums.

GRAHAM, in addition to all these superiorities, is alone in giving the climaxing value of shatter-proof safety plate glass, and its priceless protection to life and limb.

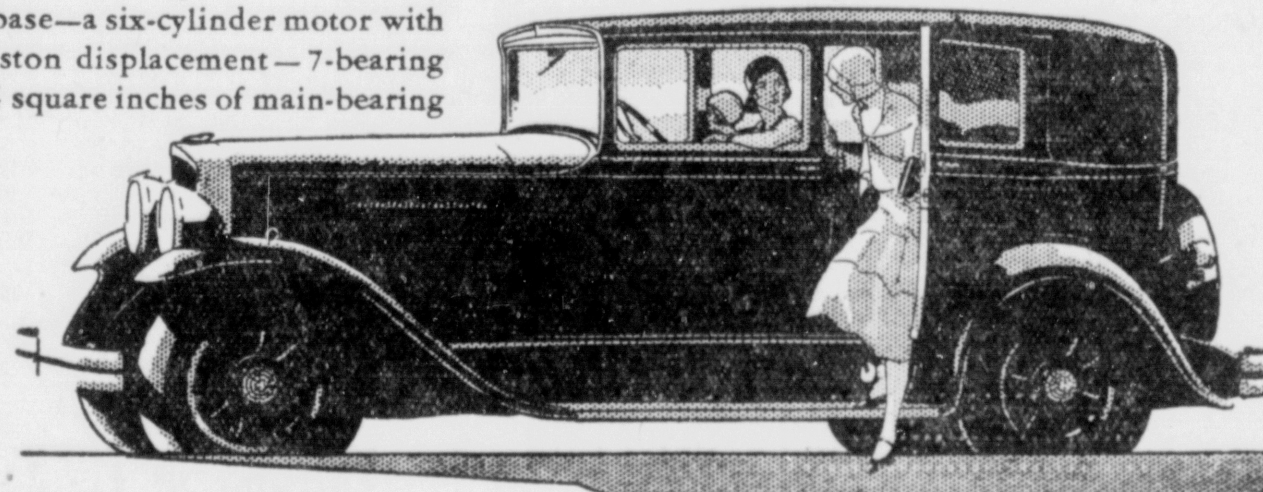

GRAHAM realizes that the true value of this car cannot be conveyed in words. It is so much more vividly evident from behind the wheel—at five, thirty or sixty miles an hour—that Graham invites and urges you to drive it—just for your own satisfaction.

GRAHAM gives the same measure of value in all its models—Standard and Special Sixes, Standard and Special Eights—for they are all products of the same science of building value through mass production. All have the distinction of being equipped throughout with shatter-proof plate glass, supplied at the lowest additional cost ever placed on such equipment.

JIMMY FOXX

"Look at those shoulders! That boy's a natural-born batting wonder. No mere coddling or training could make a fence-buster like that!"

Jimmy Foxx was just a rookie when Canny Connie Mack gave him that size-up. Four years later he was crowding the swat kings of both big leagues for the batting championship.

And just that Nature-given goodness lifted OLD GOLD from a rookie brand to a big league leader in four years' time. Naturally better tobaccos . . . free from all throat irritating impurities.

OLD GOLD created an entirely new type of cigarette enjoyment. It added a new taste thrill and took out all the throat scratch. That's why its sales have eclipsed the record of three other leading brands combined, in a like period of their existence.

One year before JIMMY FOXX joined the "A's" he was milking cows in Maryland. Four years later he was challenging the best in both leagues for the batting championship.

In the Summer of '27 OLD GOLD was first put on sale in Baltimore. In less than three months it was one of the four biggest selling cigarettes throughout Maryland.

CITY ISOLATED BY FLOODS IN TEXAS

JEFFERSON, Tex., May 21.—With approximately 350 families homeless and property damage estimated at a quarter million dollars, this city of 2,500 persons remained virtually isolated today as flood waters of three rivers began a slow recession.

Only four square blocks remained above water early today when the high waters began falling. All of the residential section was submerged and heavy damage had been inflicted in the downtown area.

The homeless were driven from residences on the outskirts of the city where the waters measured as high as five feet deep. The refugees were being cared for by friends and relatives over the city and no outside aid has been requested by city authorities.

CAPONE RELEASED IN VAGRANCY CASE

MIAMI, Fla., May 21.—Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone, Chicago racketeer, and a companion who was arrested with him at a prize fight here Monday night, today were released on a charge of vagrancy in city court.

Counsel for the gangster and his companion proved to the satisfaction of Judge Frank B. Stoneman that Capone and his associates had "ample means of support" and that they could not be classified as vagrants under Miami's present vagrancy law.

Capone and his confederate were admitted to $100 bond each shortly after their arrest.

RUMOR OR KAISER'S DEATH IS DENIED

BERLIN, May 21.—Newspaper circles here were thrown into excitement by a sudden and groundless rumor today that ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany was dead at his exile castle in Doorn, Holland.

A short while after the rumor had gained circulation, word came through from Doorn that it was absolutely without foundation.

"The Kaiser is in the best of health. He walked in his garden all morning," an official of his estate was quoted as saying.

COUNTY WOMEN WILL ATTEND CAMP THIS SUMMER JULY 15-18

Invitations are now being sent to Greene County women to attend the annual women's 4-H Club Camp, July 15 to 18, according to Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent.

Clinton and Madison Counties have heretofore carried on a successful camp at some convenient camping spot. The plan this year is to make it a tri-county camp and Greene County is invited to join the Clinton and Madison Camp.

"Women's Camp" has become a joyous term to many women in the state of Ohio, who have attended similar camps in previous years. Although these camps are carried on primarily as a recreation and vacation for farm women, many village and town women enjoy them also.

Several Greene County women have asked to have their names put on the women's camp mailing list for this summer. Any woman who wants her name put on this list may do so by telling either the county agricultural agent, or home demonstration agent or by calling the County Farm Bureau office.

Local officers who were responsible for the arrest of Paul Waddell, alias George Meyers, 21, Dayton, apprehended last April 26 as the driver of a liquor-laden truck on the Columbus Pike, went to Dayton Wednesday to testify at the youth's trial in United States district court on a charge of transporting liquor.

The youth denied being the driver of the truck, which was found to contain a cargo of 300 gallons of liquor. It later developed he had given a fictitious name and a false address in Dayton and it was also disclosed he had previously served a year in Atlanta, Ga., penitentiary on a liquor charge. Following this revelation he was turned over to federal authorities for prosecution.

Seizure of the liquor laden truck also was directly responsible for the capture of an escaped convict from the London prison farm.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

ABOUNDING IN THE LORD — Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord. — 1 Cor. 15:58.

THIS IDYLIC SEASON

Many things are seasonable in summer—such as fresh fruit, garden vegetables, vacationing, circuses, sleeping-porches, swimming, baseball and golf—but from the working man's point-of-view it just seems as though summer is first of all the seasons for straight-away, unadulterated and undisturbed loafing. And when we use "working-man" in this connection we mean every man and woman who is earning a living, every woman and man who is keeping house and every boy and girl who is going to school or college.

The economist who discovers a means whereby the world can earn a livelihood and create an estate in the nine months from September 1 to June 1 should be sainted, knighted, degraded, elected to some good paying public office and pensioned. Even though the formula has not been discovered, there should be great fortune-making possibilities in high-powered advertising of such a prescription secretly discovered and offered to a distressed public for the first time.

During autumn, winter and spring the righteous indignation of the world rises up against such as will not work but thrive as parasites upon that part of humanity which works. What a different complexion public opinion takes on during the warm and smiling days of summer! Nobody blames a fellow for turning hobo then. The meals mother prepares on hot summer days would be ample grounds for divorce at any time of the year, but father complains not and the children are satisfied. Mother hasn't the energy to prepare better and the other members of the family haven't the energy to eat that which she has provided.

So it is resolved that summer was made for hammocks, ice-cold lemonade in the shade, a water-side cottage, a loafing automobile or anything whatsoever except work.

POWER OF ADVERTISING

Beyond all question the most potent creator of business demands is the newspaper advertisement. Millions upon millions of dollars are expended every day in the stores of America because well written advertisements have directed public attention to convenient, becoming, attractive, useful, ornamental and suitable merchandise. The sale of all necessities, all luxuries, all indulgences, is more powerfully stimulated by the newspaper advertisement than by any other agency. Only hunger, cold and nakedness are comparable to the advertisement as a promoter of sales—and even purchases of food, fuel and clothing are directed more largely by the business columns of the press than by any other influence except immediate necessity.

The largest stores in our greatest cities have been built up by their advertising, their persistent and clever invitation to the public in the press to share in their bargains. Imagine what would happen to daily sales of merchandise, real estate, theatre tickets, insurance, books and other things, if newspaper advertisements were prohibited by law for six months. It is not exaggeration to say that they would drop 50 per cent.

It is not the current news of events alone that makes the press of such incalculable value to the nation, nor the free editorial expression of opinion. The business news of the day, as told by business concerns in their announcements to the public, decisively influences both the volume and the direction of trade which flows to this or that store, office or bank. This is a fundamental fact no business house can afford to overlook.

The greatest problem man has is man.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

HUMANIZING KNOWLEDGE

A teacher in a Brooklyn school has won a gold medal and $7,500 for writing the best book on the humanizing of knowledge. His book is called "Crucibles," and it tells the history of chemistry with especial attention to the human factor in the drama. Books like this are especially useful and inspiring. Knowledge apart from humanity, the human trials and struggles and pains which produced it, will interest but few and inspire fewer. The story of man and his effort to learn is the most stimulating chapter in the story of the universe, and this little part of it we call the earth.

DARROW AND THE EARTH

Though we speak of the earth as but a small part of the universe and sometimes think of life on this planet as only an unimportant incident in the ceaseless movement of solar systems, we need not, and should not, underestimate life. For after all, the life of a single human being is vastly more interesting and significant than whole masses of inanimate matter, whether they be planets, stars or suns. Clarence Darrow, decrying the importance of little man, tries to explain away the significance of life. But what is a universe with out life but a vast void?

Darrow thinks man is conceived because he dares to believe himself important. Darrow is conceived because he thinks he knows.

DON'T OVERDO KILLING

Hunters often think that the game in the fields and woods and on the wing is all for them. But the non-killer has his rights—rights in beauty and enjoyment. Hunting is restricted, but it is not restricted too much. Woods and fields and birds and beasts are nature's gift to men, to all men, and not merely to gun experts.

$30,000 WORTH OF KINDNESS

The kindly heart is not driven by the hope of reward. Kindness is the gentlest and sweetest gift of the human. Real kindness is never on a cash basis. Mrs. John Newton, Springfield, Mass., woman, didn't think of it in that way. And yet, Mrs. Newton has just received $30,000 as her share in the will of a former tramp to whom she was kind and to whom she gave food, a little clothing and 50 cents 16 years ago. It's a pleasant story and true.

THE CHILDREN'S BANK

In one of the branch banks of a Boston savings institution, there is a department for children who save their money. It is made with low counters and small-scale fittings and furniture. Can you imagine the delight of a child going to this bank and depositing his pennies like grown folks? That is putting a real dent of thrift in the plastic mind.

NEW YORK.—I see that W. O. (Bill) McGeehan, of the facile sports pen, is mixing with the dog fanciers in London, and writing home to the papers about it. That last paragraph is very subtle, but not to a student of baseball.

MARCH OF PROGRESS

The march of progress in lower Park Ave. has crept right up to the door of Mrs. Robert Bacon's mansion once more. The houses surrounding the Bacon home on Park Ave. at 34th St. have been razed to make way for a modern apartment house, leaving the domicile of the former Ambassador to France standing out by itself on the corner. At one time this home held the most aristocratic number in New York No. 1 Park Ave. When the city government made changes in the Murray Hill section they changed the Bacon number. Mrs. Bacon put up a legal fight to save it, but without avail.

This made the fashionable lady so angry she boarded up the Park Avenue entrance to her home. Having had No. 1 Park Avenue ever since there was a Park Avenue she never used the entrance again.

GAY NINETIES

New Yorkers are going to get an eyeful of gowns worn in the days when society here was society, in fact, when the Messrs. Schubert put on "Three Little Girls," in the near future.

Gowns created for the late Mrs. Ogden Goelet by Jean Worth and Paquin, and costing from $1,500 to $4,000 each, have been bought from the Brooks Costume Co., and were obtained by them from the Duchess of Roxburgh, who sold the entire collection of her mother's elaborate costumes.

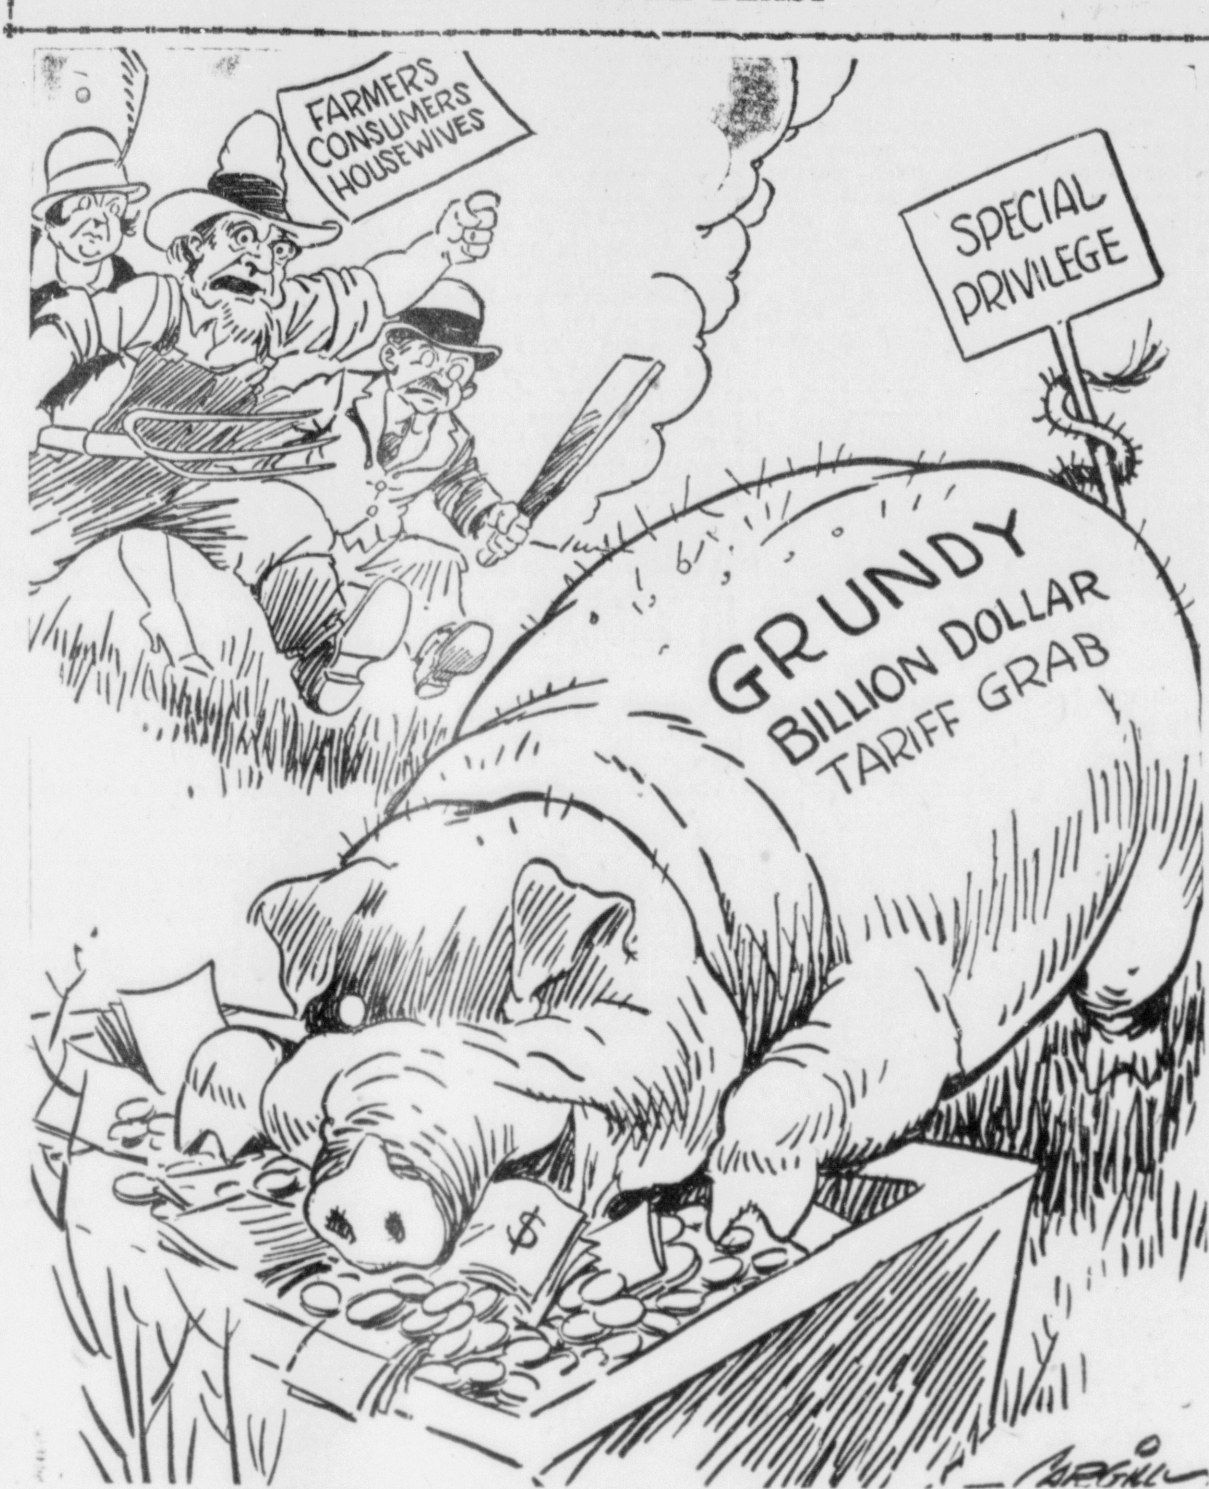

Mrs. Goelet never wore a gown twice, and in the 1890's attended numerous grand balls and fetes with a costume for each affair, after which they were laid carefully away.

Old New Yorkers will recognize many of the gowns worn by Mrs. Goelet at functions given at Delmonico's when "Del" was at Twenty-sixth Street, newspapers of the day printed photographs of them.

BOOTY AND THE BEAST

Prestige of Borah Enhanced by Leadership In Battle Against Parker Confirmation, But Norris Still Counted Progressives' Head

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Senator William E. Borah is spoken of among public men in Washington as having immensely enhanced his prestige by his leadership of the fight against confirmation of Judge John J. Parker for the U. S. supreme bench.

The fight's success is mentioned also as a record victory for the so-called progressive group in the senate. Which would seem to place the Idaho solon as leader of the senate progressives. And yet he is not their leader. He took the most prominent part in this particular fight, and maybe he was the most influential single factor in winning it, but he does not even classify as a dependable progressive.

Senator George W. Norris has led the progressives, if anyone has led them since the older Senator Robert M. LaFollette's death because of his consistency.

Young Senator LaFollette is as consistent as Senator Norris, but he lacks the latter's weight—perhaps because he is not old enough yet to have grown into it. Or possible he never will. He is an able young man—abler than most of his fellow senators thought at first, but it is not certain thus far that he has the high-powered punch that made his father the outstanding personality of his time among congressional liberals.

Senator John J. Blaine, on his voting, speech-making record, is as uniformly progressive as any radical could desire, but there is no leadership about him.

The others members of the senate's insurgent group cannot be regarded, any of them, as full 100 per cent. Some half dozen of them are near enough to it to rate as indisputable progressives, but not quite invariably so.

For example, although they opposed the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill in large part, Senators Brookhart, Frazier, Howell and Nye finally voted for it—but not Senators Norris, LaFollette or Blaine. Neither for that matter did Senators McMaster or Norbeck. However, Senator Norbeck was for Judge Parker; he did not vote, but was "paired" for him. Senator McMaster's progressive-ism has been going on him in recent months and maybe now it is undiluted, but earlier in his career he was deemed rather lukewarm.

Other progressive-ish senators simply are unreliable "regulars." (This, of course, is referring to the G. O. P. side of the chamber—not to the Democratic side or to the one-man strip occupied by Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite.)

In the matter of ability Senator Borah at least breaks even with Senator Norris. In the technique of putting up a fight possibly Senator Borah surpasses the Nebraska. Not that the latter cannot or does not fight like a wildcat, but the tremendous good will he puts into it has as much to do with his effectiveness as his method of fighting. Senator Borah's method is such that it would be formidable even if he did not care much what he was fighting about. He knows how, and puts his full force into every wal-fifty-nine per cent of all the telephones in the world.

And the most chorus girls to use them.

And all of the wrong numbers.

ing leaderlike qualities, has got to belong, all the time, to that party. The rank and file may flop about a bit, but the leader must be a certainty.

Senator Norris is the heaviest weight unequalled progressive in congress.

Senator Borah is a heavyweight all right, but the progressives would be in bad shape for leadership, with him as leader, when he is having a conservative streak.

Anyway, one always can tell in advance which side an impending rumpled Senator Norris will be or if any question of progressive doctrines versus stand pat-ism is involved in it, and one never can tell which side Senator Borah will take until he has taken it.

All things being equal (or a trifle better), Senator Borah appears to be thoroughly progressive. Equality makes no difference to Senator Norris.

The progressives really are a separate party.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

PETER SOLVES THE MYSTERY Telling the sad story of his brother's fall was too much for Brown Water-Beetle. He sobbed and sobbed, and it was some few moments before Peter could get the fellow to continue. Peter had to ask the question three times.

"What did your brother fall upon that hurt him so?" Brown Water-Beetle shook his head.

"I'm sure I don't know!" said he. Whatever it was, shone like silver in the moonlight and was very, very slippery—well I remember, for I almost lost my footing when I went to brother's aid. If I had not had wings I would have fallen. And, oh, yes, the thing slanted and it must have been a cover of some sort, for beneath it grew the loveliest flowers."

"I know what your brother landed on" cried Peter. "Now that I've heard everything I can guess what shines like silver in the moonlight and is slippery and would trick one into thinking it was water."

"What?" demanded Brown Water-Beetle, in his curiosity forgetting his sorrow.

"The glass roof of a greenhouse!" cried Peter, triumphantly. "Of course the glass roof of a greenhouse! Nothing else would slant and cover lovely flowers. I am so sorry your brother met with such a sad fate. Brown Beetle. Do accidents like that often happen in your family?"

"All too often!" admitted Brown Water-Beetle, sadly. "Stubbornness is a trait with all my tribe, and when we get it into our heads to do a certain thing, do it we will, in spite of all warnings. Now if brother had listened to me he might have been here with us, right now, alive and happy. Do you know what brother did just before he left us? You couldn't guess, so I'll tell you—he gobbled up one of his cousins!"

BREAKFAST Fresh Strawberries and Grapefruit (Chilled) Ham Omelet Bran Muffins Jam Coffee
DINNER California Cocktail Baked Ham Escalloped Potatoes Buttered Cauliflower Hot Rolls, Jam Stuffed Tomato Salad Ice Cream
SUPPER Breaded Bacon Strips Deviled Eggs on Head Lettuce Toast Brown Puff Tea

This is a menu planned for two adults. Two business girls who are at home on Sunday may easily prepare it. The Sunday evening supper may be stretched to include a number of guests.

Today's Recipes California Cocktail—Dice two large juicy apples and mix with the diced portions of three oranges. Add three tablespoons of sugar and chill on ice. Serve in low sherberts surrounded with cracked ice.

Breaded Bacon—Dip Strips of bacon into beaten egg, roll in cracker crumbs and season. Fry slowly to a crisp golden brown. One egg will dip about four strips.

Brown Puff—One cup brown sugar, one-fourth cup butter, two eggs, (without whites), one-half cup milk, one cup flour, one and one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon cloves ground. Bake in a hot oven. Beat egg whites with one-half cup of brown sugar and put on top of the cake to brown in the oven as a meringue.

Suggestions Party Dessert

A party dessert of this nature is easily arranged. Scoop vanilla ice cream with a round or pointed cream scoop and arrange in a ring on a large plate. Fill the center of the circle with canned peaches, pouring over them a raspberry sauce. Around the outside place meringues and you will have a huge peach melba.

Dairymaid Salad—Arrange several leaves of lettuce on a salad plate. In the center place a mound of well seasoned cottage cheese and on opposite sides arrange slices of tomatoes and cucumbers. Make a slight indentation in the cheese and fill with jam. Serve with French dressing.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Maintaining Normal Weight

"Dear Doctor: How many calories must one eat to keep the weight the same? I have lost 20 pounds, but as soon as I start eating again, I start gaining."

"MRS. B."

Always, after you stop dieting, you will gain a few pounds due to the fact that more water is retained in the tissues when more food is taken, so be prepared for this. But if you continue to gain, it shows you are not on your maintenance number of calories—you are on a gaining number. The only way to find out is to watch the scales. No one can tell you definitely how much you need. I depend on a good deal upon your height; the taller a person and the larger the framework, the more calories are needed to keep you going. You know, a small runabout will go the same number of miles as a big truck, on one-fourth or less the amount of fuel!

It is quite evident that Nature didn't intend short people to eat as much as tall people. That is why you will find the one who is short has so much more difficulty in keeping the weight normal than a tall person. This explains in part the remark "somebody eats twice as much as I do and doesn't gain an ounce." And perhaps that somebody's physical activities are three times as great as yours, for physical activities also play a very large part in your calor' (energy and heating) needs. Your age and the season also have something to do with the number you need to keep your weight normal.

You sent ten cents but you did not enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope, nor give your name and address, nor did you request anything in particular. Mrs. B. What can we do about it? I suppose you wanted the Petersizing pamphlet. I am sorry we can't send it to you, for 'tis good and does bring results (if followed).

Mr. O.—Ring up your County Medical Society and ask whether the doctor you want to see is a member. That is one way you can check up on him, to see whether he is an ethical physician or not, for practically all physicians of good standing in their own profession are members of their County Medical Society and attend its meetings and keep abreast of the times. (This is also necessary to become a member of the great American Medical Association and receive the official medical magazine).

R.—Not all bruises form cancers later in life, even though there are evidences of the bruises left. If it were so, we would all have cancer, R.

Lumps, warts, moles and scars that are in a position where they are constantly irritated, by rubbing or in any other way, or any of these that are beginning to grow, are danger spots. Of course, even with this, there is undoubtedly some change in the metabolism or body chemistry—especially from a prolonged wrong diet—which helps mark the cancer process, perhaps.

If your physician is a competent one and he is watching the bruised spot you have, and it isn't growing in any way or being irritated, I wouldn't be worried about it, if I were you.

If you are interested in literature on Cancer, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, New York Committee, 34 East 75th Street, New York City.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following: "all charges to help cover cost of printing and handling for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

M. G.: The trouble with your sweetheart is, I imagine, M. G. that he loves his children, and can't bear to do anything that would separate him from them, as the marriage with you might. It is possible, too, that as he is no longer living with his wife, he forgets the matters about which they quarreled, and is happier when in her company. I am sorry not to be more comforting, but that is the way the matter looks to me.

Possibly it would be a good idea to suggest to him that as long as he no longer seems interested in getting married that you separate. It would give him a chance to tell you what was on his mind, if anything, and you would know where you stood.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I have read your column and thought maybe you could give me some advice. "I was married when I was 16 to a man I thought good and pure, but whom I later learned was quarrelsome. He won't buy me anything I need. "I have learned to love a single boy and he declares he will be good to me if I will divorce my husband and go with him, but I'm afraid I won't be happy, although I love him dearly and he has a good position to support a wife. "I haven't any children and I am undecided what to do.

"UNDECIDED." As you are so undecided, stay by your husband and wait until you can make up your mind. Are you sure you have done everything in your power to make a success of your married life? A man who doesn't give his wife "anything she needs," is not necessarily a failure, you know. And as to his being quarrelsome, if a man's wife openly confesses that she loves another man, I should say he had cause for dissatisfaction, at least.

THREE PUZZLED GIRLS: Sorry, my dears, but when a friendship such as yours for these boys cools, it is practically impossible to warm it up again. Possibly there are more nice girls than nice boys in your neighborhood. So the boys have more choice of friends. Sorry I can't help you. All you can do is to continue to be friendly and nice, and maybe the boys will decide they enjoy your society better than that of any of the others.

How To Achieve Beauty

By GLAYS GLAD

Corns and callouses are more likely to be troublesome now than at any other time of the year.

What every woman and girl should do before the warm weather begins is to make one of those semi-annual trips to the chiropodist advised by me some time ago.

It has been a cause of much surprise to me that although women have learned to make their twice-yearly trips to the dentist and their weekly or fortnightly visits to the manicurist, they have not acquired the "chiropody habit."

To have your feet taken care of expertly is not expensive. The treatments take little of your time and they contribute so much to your comfort, and indirectly to your beauty.

You may, if you have not neglected the care of your feet during the winter months, be able to give your feet all the additional care they need at this time of the year without visiting a chiropodist. But it is impossible for you to remove corns and callouses as expertly as a chiropodist can do such work for you.

You know very well the unshapefulness of toes marred by the presence of corns. The chiropodist easily can reach to the farthest roots of that kind of growth, remove it, and give the toes an opportunity to regain their normal shape and healthy condition.

With the warmer weather approaching so quickly, it is necessary also that sufferers from excessive perspiration of the feet should take special care of their pedal extremities. Bathing the feet first in warm water and soap, and then in cold water in which a handful of salt or a teaspoonful of alum has been dissolved, will aid in keeping down excessive perspiration. In warm weather, the victim of excessive and odorous foot perspiration should change stockings twice a day.

ANSWERS TO QUIRIES
Powder Base Tommy: After the face has been cleansed, apply cold cream. Then wipe off the surplus, and leave a very thin film for a powder base. Lemon juice or dilute peroxide make excellent face bleaches.

Pimples M. M. K.: My treatment for pimples is too detailed to be printed here. However, I have incorporated it in my Beauty Culture booklet. To remove brown spots, a solution of one part of hyposulphite of soda and eight parts of water is very effective.

Only Skin Troubled: I would suggest that you use an astringent before applying your powder. Use a light powder.

Dandruff Blanche: Why not try putting your hair up with a switch? Sulphur mixed with vaseline is an excellent remedy for dandruff. The proportions are 60 grains of sulphur to one ounce of vaseline.

Brown Spots Earnestina: A solution of one part of hyposulphite of soda and eight parts of water is excellent to remove brown spots. The surest way to remedy a drooping eyelid is by plastic surgery.

Skin Disease Frances B.: I would advise you to consult a skin specialist about the scabs on your face.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each, for printing and mailing. Personal questions on Beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

They certainly sling the mud these days in the heavyweight wrestling game. The heavyweight situation is so confused that there are almost as many claimants to the world's championship as there are wrestlers in this class.

Tuesday we received an announcement of a forthcoming match bally-hoing John Pesek, the Nebraska Tiger Man, as the heavyweight champion of the universe because he has won seventy-two consecutive matches in the last year and a half and "because Sonneberg and Shikat are too yellow to get in the ring with him." That is strong language.

According to the advance menu we received Pesek will wrestle at Santelli, of Oakland, Calif., with the world's title at stake at Haft's Acre arena, Columbus, Wednesday night under the auspices of the Quality Club.

Pesek is a two-fisted champion, they say. American wrestling fans, it is claimed, rate him the heavyweight champion of the world because his challenges and cash forfeits amounting to more than $20,000 posted with the New York Commission, Illinois Commissions, the N. B. A. and other representative sporting organizations have remained unanswered by Dick Shikat and Gus Sonneberg. He is the only heavyweight title claimant who has posted forfeits to back his claim.

Santelli, who will be Pesek's opponent Wednesday night, has a record of winning his last twenty-one matches and is considered one of America's outstanding heavyweights whose record stands out as one of the best in the mat sport. He is rated among the five best heavies and will in any event be a dangerous challenger.

Peter Shagin, Xenia's favorite motorcycle policeman, is getting famous. Possibly he doesn't know it but his nameake has been entered in the three-year-old pace, one of the stake events on the three day harness racing program which will feature the Greene County Fair in August.

Maybe it was just a coincidence and maybe not but, in any event "Peter Shagin," a bay gelding by Peter Henley, has been nominated for this juvenile race by W. A. Schmidt, Centerville, O.

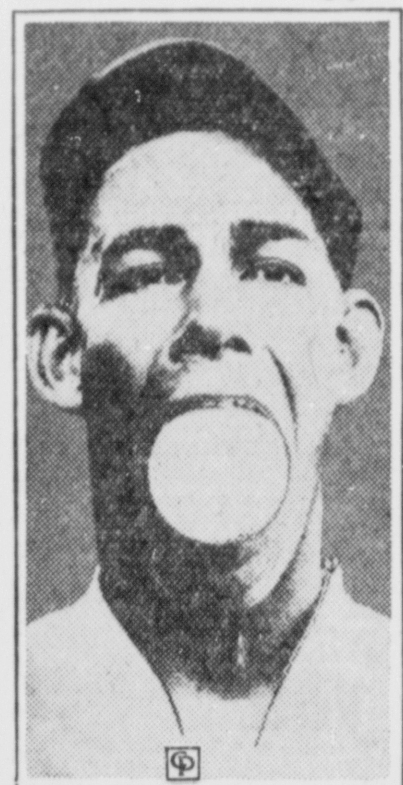

Two thousand, two hundred dollars the rich mien which will be sliced among the money winners in the four stake races carded on the program. The three-year-old trotting stake has twenty-four nominations and three-year-old pace, 2:18 pace and 2:18 trotting stakes each have twenty-two, a grand total of ninety on any adding machine.

There are three locally-entered horses in the stake races, Ira Garinger, Jamestown, will place his trust in My Loraine and T. R. Stephens, Jamestown, has entered Ray Reed in the 2:18 pace while G. M. Hagler, Xenia trainer, has faith in Ray Henley in the three-year-old pace.

Entries in the class events will not close until the week before the fair opens.

That was a funny yarn out of Milwaukee the other day. It seems that a baseball player with a reputation for making long hits only infrequently, knocked a long blow that looked good for a home run. In fact, it was a tremendous drive and the player, immensely pleased, circled the bases easily and pulled up puffing to receive the plaudits of his teammates. Shouting and gestulating wildly, the players explained to him that he had neglected to touch first base on his trip around the sacks. The ball was just being returned to the diamond from deep outfield and the home run hitter by dint of fast running managed to reach first base safely. He received credit for only a single but is laying claim to having belted the longest blow in baseball—a five-bagger. It is seldom that a batter is legitime home run into a single.

Baseballs for Supper

Not that he really eats them, but Vernon Deck, St. Joseph, Mo., outfielder, can put the spheroids inside his mouth as this photo proves. Deck, who hails from Williford, Tex., lays claim to being the only professional league player able to do the stunt.

KI-RO TEAM SURPRISES WITH IMPRESSIVE WIN OVER CADDIES

Displaying a complete reversal of form, the Kiwanis-Rotary softball team played heads-up ball in every department to vanquish the Country Club Caddies by the astonishingly decisive score of 17 to 1 in an American League game Tuesday night at Cox Athletic Field.

The hitherto undefeated Caddies, who had shared the league leadership with the Krippendorf-Dittman Co., nine, were blanked for the first eight innings by Russ Kimber, Ki-Ro pitcher, who hurled a game that approximated the best, holding the lowers to seven scattered bingles.

The Caddies tallied one unearned run in the last of the ninth, thereby depriving Kimber of a shutout victory. An infield error paved the way for Custer to circle the bases. While Kimber was holding the opposition away from the plate in the ninth, the Ki-Ro team came to life at bat and nicked Smith, Caddies' hurler, for sixteen safeties, scoring in every inning but three.

Every Ki-Ro player got at least one drive into safe territory. "Brownie" Baldner collected a single, double and the only home run of the game while Kimber contributed a brace of doubles and a single. Price and Custer each made two hits for the Caddies.

The victory was the first of the current season for the Ki-Ro nine and elevated its league percentage to an even .500 in the won and lost column.

The Ki-Ro bunch not only batted hard but gave Kimber nearly perfect support in the field, making only two errors. Few teams will beat this aggregation if it continues to display the fine form demonstrated Tuesday night. Line-ups:

GREATEST DRAWING EVENT IN SPORTDOM IS 500-MILE RACE

Indianapolis Speed Classic Will Draw 170,000 Fans

By DAVID J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 21.—Happiness is only relative and so, when I am assured today that the greatest crowd an American sport feature has ever known will achieve satisfaction of its soul hunger, or something by witnessing the 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis on Memorial Day, the information is accepted without question, satisfaction. Indeed, should know no bounds after 500 miles of automobile racing. It ought to feel so good when they stop.

As a matter of fact, the appeal of this event is immemorial, almost incorrigible. It did business with 163,000 persons last year, thus placing it beyond comparison with anything else that American sport can vouchsafe, and the word now is that, if it doesn't draw 170,000 this time, they are thinking of throwing it back in again in order to comply with the game laws. The Indianapolis race needs nobody's approval. It is the only thing America has that compares with the English Derby at Epsom, with this exception: they won't take haircut money at the gate.

The latest check up, according to official figures, shows that there are less than 5,000 seats left in a grandstand that accommodates 80,000 and this takes no cognizance of the two and one-half miles of track, around which the parking spaces for motor car parties are allotted.

Perhaps football and boxing would outdraw it, were it possible for 175,000 people to see either of them without first proving their fitness by writing Lincoln's Gettysburg address on the head of a pin. The point is that neither football nor boxing can or ever will outdraw it.

The former's bumper attendance is the 120,000 crowd that witnessed the Notre-Dame-Southern California game at Chicago last fall. Boxing's big water mark, numerically and liquidity, was the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Philadelphia, where 128,000 souls are presumed to have peered knowingly at the proceedings. This pair just about represents the limit attendance for both sports. More people won't see boxing and football conducted. They won't because they can't.

There are no secrets at the Indianapolis event. If a man leaps unerringly through the rail and into the hospital, he does so without the benefit of privacy. It is one of those things where he cannot even break an engagement, except before the delighted horrified gaze of all, and this year they have arranged matters with much greater consideration. They have put two men back in the cars so that, if any falling transpires, it can be done twice.

The rest of the appeal, as far as the 1930 race is concerned, is international—two foreign champions from Italy against three American champions, present and past. One of the Italians is Baccini Borzacchini, who drives the fastest car in Europe.

"Bring home the Bacon!" they said and he promised he would. He wouldn't fool them, either, not with a car that does 152.85 miles per hour.

The best of a representative American field are Louis Meyer, current American champion; and Peter De Paolo and Harry Hartz, champions of the immediate past. There are many others, of course, but this trio ought to be enough. It usually is.

DOWNTOWNERS WIN FROM ANTIOCH NINE

Regaining its batting eye and playing a snappy fielding game, the Downtown Country Club softball team blanked an Antioch College champion intra-mural softball nine, 15 to 0 in a nine-inning game staged on Antioch's grass diamond at Yellow Springs Tuesday night.

The contest was played with the bases sixty feet apart instead of the regulation forty-five foot distance, customary in Xenia. The Downtowners will visit Yellow Springs again Wednesday night next week to meet a picked college team, composed of the best softball talent available at Antioch.

YOUTH ADMITS HE MURDERED FATHER

CINCINNATI, O., May 21.—Exhausted and considerably battered up, Vincent Lynagh, 21, walked into the police station here this morning and calmly told officers that he had killed his father, Stephen Lynagh, a retired grocer, aged 85.

Blood spattered was the room in which the body of the father was later found at the Lynagh home. Furniture had been overturned during the fist fight between father and son. The latter told police his aged father fought for three hours before he was killed.

Young Lynagh stated to officials that he had been the victim of insanity spells for several years.

LEO FLYNN DEAD

Leo P. Flynn, one of the best known boxing managers and mentor of Jack Dempsey during his Jack Sharkey fight and last Gene Tunney bout, is dead after a brief illness.

FROM THE TEE TO GREEN

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Sports Writer

There is no greater example of sound golf than that of Glenna Collett. Her consistency is proven when she recently won her fourth championship, among women, over a period of six years. She won her first important event in 1923.

Glenna is one of the longest drivers off the tee coupled with control and one of the smoothest swingers.

Miss Collett never over-swing, which is the most common and disastrous to the majority of the women playing today. The average woman golfer harbors the idea that she is a weakling and consequently must force all her golf.

This theory should be reversed. It is Glenna's smooth backswing, loose grip and whipping wrists that sends the ball far down the fairway.

Notice the ease with which Miss Collett looks over her left shoulder and the position of the left arm at the top of her driving stroke. There is no forced effort here.

Also note the position of the club. It points toward the sky at the finish of the back stroke. The wrists are ready to whip through the tee shot.

Her body does not sway—it turns around with the shot.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 21.—Most of the industrial and utility stocks which led the market in Tuesday's final rally were carried to slightly higher price levels in the first hour today by a new buying wave, which represented short covering by the professionals as well as bargain-hunting by the small bulls.

Inability of U. S. Steel to continue its upward move was a disappointment to the market and the whole list settled down to the usual routine, with prices sawing in a narrow range. General Motors was turned over rapidly around 50, reaching a new high on the move fractionally above that price.

Another slight recession in the demand for steel, with a corresponding drop in steel mills' operations, reflected nothing more than the seasonal contraction of steel consumption. The same was true of other lines of industry. Stocks of the food companies made a better showing, Borden and National Biscuit moving up about 2 points each, and general food and standard brands rising fractionally.

The market in the second hour was as dull as it could possibly be, with reduced trading centering

Has it ever occurred to you that back of every advertise- ment in this paper there is some one with a personal message for you? More often than not these advertisements were writ- ten with you in mind. It is impossible for most merchants and manufacturers to give you a phone call about their goods, their wares, or their services. Give an advertisement the same attention you give to a phone call. Many of them are just as important to you—and just as interesting. They will help you to economize and keep you posted on news of vital interest to you and your pocket- book.

The honest reason

THERE IS ONLY one real reason for smoking and that's pleasure. A pretty good reason after all. The cigarette you select in the long run will be the one that can contribute most to your enjoyment.

Camels are made with that idea in mind—the idea that genuine smoke pleasure is what you want in a cigarette.

When you try them you will find a refreshing difference—a mild, mellow richness of choice tobaccos—a blended harmony of fragrance, silky smooth—that makes smoking a delight.

The fact that more millions have chosen Camel than any other ciga- rette is a tribute to an honest product, marketed for an honest purpose.

RIVETS MAKE THE TANK-CAR OIL-TIGHT

The TORRID ZONE STEEL FURNACE

is gas-tight and dust-tight because it is riveted

Warm air, the choice of all real authorities on healthful heating, reaches perfection through the Torrid Zone. The special construction of this longer-lasting furnace insures clean, warm air, at all times free from fumes — and brighter and happier homes.

For just as the tank-car is made leak-proof by hot riveting and cold-calking . . . so the Torrid Zone Furnace of boiler-plate steel is made gas, smoke and dust-tight.

That means no gas-tainted air when the furnace is freshly fueled or banked for the night. No dust or smoke from the registers following a shake down. Even the cellar or furnace-room will be cleaner than you ever thought it could be, because of the unusually snug firing and ash doors. Every part of the Torrid Zone is as tight as a drum.

Two other essentials to health and comfort — humidity and ventilation — obtainable only with warm air systems are a part of the Torrid Zone. The humidifier has twice the evaporating area inside the casing of ordinary water pans, and it is positioned for rapid evaporation. Air circulation is guaranteed when an authorized Lennox Furnace man installs according to the Standard Code.

The efficiency of a Torrid Zone magnifies your coal pile. Oversized heating surface causes Torrid Zone furnaces to produce from 10% to 20% more heat from the fuel than other furnaces, hence they will heat with less fuel than other furnaces will consume. Models for soft coal, coke, hard coal, lignite, wood, gas or oil.

Come in and see why the Torrid Zone is the most desirable furnace that heating science has yet devised. Look at its sturdy locomotive grates and "lazy" shaker. Get the booklet that explains its features in detail. We will gladly furnish plans and estimates for either new or old homes or other buildings. Factory blueprints obtained for special problems. Made by the LENNOX FURNACE COMPANY, SYRACUSE, New York — Marshalltown, Iowa — Toronto, Canada.

BOY SCOUT Activities

Scheduled as one of the impressive meetings of May, Troop 45, Boy Scouts of America will conduct an investiture ceremony in the council ring near the Scout cabin in Shawnee Park, Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

The meeting will be in the form of a tenderfoot initiation and will be presided over by E. L. Blackburn, scoutmaster, and the Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, chairman of the troop committee.

Leonard Trunnell, J. F. Molitor, Kenneth Witham, assistant scoutmasters, together with Walter Jones, John Vanderpool and H. K. Snyder will be the adult leaders present when six boys will be formally introduced and inducted into Troop 45 of the Scout organization.

Several novel features are also planned for the meeting. The Scouts will also receive final instructions concerning the journey to Springfield Friday, to the Scout council.

Plans are now underway for a second class investiture meeting by Troop 45, to be held during the latter part of June.

Two Short Change Victims Complain

A "short change racket" with Earl Tyler, of Mawman, W. Va., as the alleged central figure, was being made the subject of a police investigation Wednesday.

An affidavit was filed in Municipal Court Wednesday accusing Tyler of working a confidence game upon the Interurban Restaurant, N. Detroit St., and the Carl Anderson rent-a-car agency. It is claimed, police say, that Tyler short changed the restaurant to the extent of $5 and the auto agency by $1.

Tyler and his two brothers, Ernest and O. C. Tyler, all of the West Virginia city, have been held in the County Jail for investigation following an auto accident on the Jamestown Pike Monday afternoon.

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO DESERVED TO WIN

READ THIS FIRST:

Clara Dee Forester, the motherless, pampered, beautiful product of a modern boarding school life of idleness and extravagance, supplemented by extensive travel, scarcely knew her father, Matthew Forester, who had indulged with his immense wealth, not wisely, but too well, in his effort to provide her with the "best in life," since the death of her young mother, whom he had idolized. Forester goes to his lawyer, John Gregory, and makes a will leaving one dollar to Clara Dee Forester dies, and Gregory has just read the will to Clara Dee.

Thus Clara Dee found herself put on her own resources, like thousands of girls in offices and shops. But her father believed that his girl would measure up to his mark if she were given a chance. Clara Dee leaves her luxurious home and secures a room at Mrs. Flynn's boarding house.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

With halting steps, Clara Dee entered her new room. She raised one hand slowly, and removed her hat, crossed to the clean and neatly made bed, and gazed about her. There was but one window in the room; the shade was cracked and seamy but freshly laundered curtains of plain white muslin covered the lower sash. There was an old oak chiffonier (many a match had been scratched on its cracked veneer), a starched and patterned rug, a bed with a white coverlet, and a chair which was poked through in several places and reinforced by a flowered cretonne cushion, a wash stand with its bowl and squat pitcher, over which hung a crisply laundered towel, a width of worn Brussels carpet under her feet. Her eye traced slowly what remained of the pattern; huge red scrolls on a tan background. Though she had never even imagined herself in just such surroundings (indeed, had never quite believed that such rooms existed except in fiction) she thought she could very readily sympathize with the prince who had found himself suddenly in the jeering crowd clothed in the rags of the pauper.

She opened her purse, an exquisitely fashioned one of golden mesh, and emptied the contents on the cotton bedspread. The crisp, new one-dollar bill which Gregory had given her in compliance with her father's last will and testament, a ten-dollar bill and some change amounting to almost two dollars—to be exact, one dollar and eighty-seven cents, the remainder of the last check her father had written for her—that was all. The ten dollars and change she put back into the purse; the one dollar, her legacy, she fingered thoughtfully.

Clara Dee Forester, the sole body heir of one of the mightiest financiers, had inherited—one dollar. Why? Ever that question repeated itself in Clara Dee's mind—why? Though she could not offer a plausible explanation she had by this time concluded that the reason must have been important and justified. In spite of not having known her father intimately, she had ever recognized that any act of his, any decision, was important. She had sensed it in the same way that his business associates, correspondents who had never seen him, enemies and friends, alike, had sensed it. That same thought which had come to her yesterday just before she had entered the library and Gregory's presence, returned to her mind. Her father had never invited her to live at home but had suggested repeatedly that she spend her summers and holiday vacations elsewhere. Then how could she have been so important and justified? Perhaps twice a year she spent a few days in the same house where he lived—not with him—just for long enough to prepare for her next flight; days of excitement and anticipation of the holiday before her, shopping, fittings, friends rushing in to catch a glimpse of her before she sailed off in motor or Pullman away. Then another thought followed its predecessor: had she ever asked to remain at home, ever declined the trips he suggested, ever shown the least interest in him and her home? Being quite candid, always, she had to admit that she had not. Vague that why he had never seemed to want her? Was it possible that he had wished that very thing but had been too proud or too generous to ask it of her? Matthew Forester had never begged for anything; was it not possible that he had refused to beg for his daughter's interest and love, which should naturally have been his by every right of life, care, support and fatherly interest?

She recalled his letters, written to her each month at school; brief, concise business letters were all they had been. But which had she anticipated the more eagerly—the letters or their enclosures, the generous checks ever more and more generous as her desires and demands grew. What of her replies to these letters? A few insouciant lines dashed off dutifully while anxious to be on her way to the next exciting pleasure. She had only been home this summer because she had decided it would be her duty and "quite the thing" to come home for a season among her family friends after her graduation.

Perhaps the mistake had been his, perhaps she was the victim of circumstances and environment over which she had had no control, but she knew that he was not to blame, that he had not chosen to be without her companionship. He had done what he had supposed was best for her, what the majority of wealthy parents were doing for their children. Now, so alone and lonely, not only alone in the solitude of this mean little room, but alone in the world, which had so recently been hers to command, she guessed some small measure of the loneliness he had suffered during the past ten years of his life, grieving over the loss of her mother and denying himself her own companionship that he might provide her with every advantage and joy of life. Yes, doubtless, she had not been wholly to blame for her selfish acceptance of what he offered, but neither had he been at fault. While he had suffered the loneliness in silence, she had followed the line of least resistance and most pleasure.

By the time she began to hear the arrival of the other roomers as they wearily climbed the second flight of stairs to their third-floor rooms, after long hours in the July heat of shops and offices, she had tried herself mercilessly and unmercifully voted that she had been guilty of cruel neglect of her father. By this time the tears were flowing, unheeded, down her pale, soft cheeks and she had solved the question, why, in her own way. She had failed her father to such an extent that he had refused to reward her as was customary to reward a daughter, upon his death. Well—he could not have been expected to leave his hard and wisely earned wealth to an incompetent and strange girl! And that was what she had been to him!

Perhaps he had expected her to revolt, to contest his authority, to drag his name and doubtful sanity into the courts, or even worse, to sink in despair to the depths of poverty and weakness. Very well, she determined, she would prove that though she had been nearly enough to nothing, she could yet be something. She had not taken inventory of her physical and mental resources, her inadequate training for life in such an environment, as she had her money. But of course, she was so ignorant of all these complications.

With the dainty bit of linen she dried her eyes, then crossed the room to where her bag stood as Thomas had placed it after carrying it up the stairs for her. She found the photograph of her father.

er, and removing the easel back, folded the dollar bill once and carefully placed it behind the picture, re-adjusting the frame and set it upon the high oak chiffonier. After gazing at it a moment, she hesitantly laid her lips upon the glass which covered the stern, handsome face. By his strange, dramatic wish in death, he had commanded his daughter's respect and consideration as he had not done in life by entering to her every whim.

Next, she brushed her short black hair to a sleek glossiness, repaired the damage the tears had done to her appearance and sat down uncertainly in the uncomfortable chair to await the sound of the supper gong. She was both stiffly frightened and anxiously eager to meet her neighbors. She felt not the least bit hungry but, as in her other swift decisions, she determined to have it over with—besides, she did not wish to appear weak nor frightened before Mrs. Flynn, who had been so kind as to take her in after learning about her one-dollar legacy. A gong sounded faintly and the instant response of banging doors and shuffling feet which resulted, sounded to Clara Dee more like the progress of French Revolutionists than peace-loving American citizens responding to the dinner bell. After the noise had somewhat subsided and came but dimly from the lower floors, Clara Dee timidly opened her door and stepped out into the semi-darkness of the hall. She tried to catch up with the last of them but could not make the pace and arrived at the door of the basement dining room a little breathless and bewildered after they were all seated and were in the lower floors. She tried to catch up with the last of them but could not make the pace and arrived at the door of the basement dining room a little breathless and bewildered after they were all seated and were in the lower floors.

By the time she began to hear the arrival of the other roomers as they wearily climbed the second flight of stairs to their third-floor rooms, after long hours in the July heat of shops and offices, she had tried herself mercilessly and unmercifully voted that she had been guilty of cruel neglect of her father. By this time the tears were flowing, unheeded, down her pale, soft cheeks and she had solved the question, why, in her own way. She had failed her father to such an extent that he had refused to reward her as was customary to reward a daughter, upon his death. Well—he could not have been expected to leave his hard and wisely earned wealth to an incompetent and strange girl! And that was what she had been to him!

Perhaps he had expected her to revolt, to contest his authority, to drag his name and doubtful sanity into the courts, or even worse, to sink in despair to the depths of poverty and weakness. Very well, she determined, she would prove that though she had been nearly enough to nothing, she could yet be something. She had not taken inventory of her physical and mental resources, her inadequate training for life in such an environment, as she had her money. But of course, she was so ignorant of all these complications.

With the dainty bit of linen she dried her eyes, then crossed the room to where her bag stood as Thomas had placed it after carrying it up the stairs for her. She found the photograph of her father.

The Theater

The World War passed into history nearly twelve years ago, but its drama continues to be the inspiration for stage and screen stories as indicated by the fact that two pictures based on war stories were voted among the six best pictures of the month in the current Photoplay Magazine.

War literature itself has had a "Mammy" and Al Jolson in peculiar history. During the war, the conflict was glorified in press agents' propaganda and it seemed that the war literature that followed the armistice was developed on the milk and honey theory that war is glorious and victory is sweet.

The natural reaction to this old-fashioned hokum in a realistic world, was a decline in popularity of the war story. Then the realists came into their own and began to picture war as a messy business at its best. The tragedy of war was written into our literature as an argument against war.

Lawrence Stallings' "What Price Glory?" was the first of these to reach the stage and the picture adaptation of this play was one of the best of current pictures, even though the silent version left out the picturesque language of the original.

The success of the picture resulted in another, "The Big Parade," which also calculated to show war stripped of its brass ornaments. Remarkable best success in this goal in his "All Quiet on the Western Front" and now this novel and "Journey's End," the British stage play, have come to be voted among the six best talks of the month.

"Journey's End" was an instant stage success in New York, played by the British actors of the original company and Colin Clive, who played in the original stage company, also performs in the picture version.

The other four "best pictures" are "The Divorcee," "The Bad One," "King of Jazz" and "One Romantic Night." The best performances of the month the magazine reveals, were: Colin Clive and Anthony Bushell in "Journey's End"; Lillian Gish, O. P. Heggie and Marie Dressler in "One Romantic Night"; Jeanette Loff in "King of Jazz"; Dolores del Rio and Edmund Lowe in "The Bad One"; Lew Ayres and John Wray in "All Quiet on the Western Front"; Alice White in "Show Girl in Hollywood"; John Boles in "Captain of the Guard"; John Barrymore in "The Man From

Buy a Six of Course but be Sure it's a Super-Six

The Essex Challenger is a Super-Six. By its patented principle the ability of the 6-cylinder type is freed to the limit. It is responsible for a performance and smoothness that belong exclusively to the Essex Challenger. That is why we say—and more buyers every day are saying—"not just a Six, but a Super-Six."

ESSEX Challenger Gives Sparkling Performance

Essex performance comes from its completely balanced motor and power line. This balance of aluminum pistons, crankshaft, clutch and flywheel, coupled with the Lanchester Balancer gives more power and smoothness at all speeds.

Roadability and Safety

Longer wheelbase, larger tires and patented spring suspension make Essex the most roadable of cars. High speed with safety is possible because of the positive action of four-wheel brakes.

Interior appointments carry the same motif as fenders and lamps.

Upholstery is of finest quality. There is a graceful three-spoke steering wheel, and the instrument panel holds starter, electric fuel and oil level gauge as well as motometer.

This is the finest, best performing Essex value ever built. It holds scores of records established during continent-wide Challenger Week. See it and drive it. You will need no other proof that this is not just a six, but a Super-Six.
